SLAYER OF LITTLE DOROTHY AUNE IS FOUND

ANDY MANN, 40, CONFESSES TO THREE MURDERS

TELLS ST. PAUL POLICE HE ALSO KILLED EARL TAGUE, 16,
AND ST. PAUL NEGRO

INDICTED ON A FIRST DEGREE MURDER CHARGE, TO BE IN PRISON BY NIGHTFALL

St. Paul, Minn., April 7.—(U.P.)—Andy Mann, negro, this afternoon pleaded guilty to the murder of Earl Tague, 16.

Mann pleaded guilty after his attorney, Frank Diehl, had attempted to save him by a plea of insanity. Judge Hanft, however, took the case in his own hands and after questioning Mann, said the court found him sane.

By pleading guilty to the murder of the St. Paul lad, Mann escapes indictment for the killing of Dorothy Aune, 12-year-old Minneapolis girl. Dorothy's body was found near railroad tracks in South Minneapolis. Detectives searched the entire northwest for the brutal killer of the little girl who vanished while playing near her home and was not seen again until her body was found tied in two old gunny sacks near the railroad tracks.

Shortly after her disappearance last summer, police found Dorothy's cloak less than a mile from her home. That bit of evidence led police to believe at that time that she had been kidnapped in an automobile.

A Duluth dock worker confessed to killing the Aune girl a few months after her body was found. Police later disproved his statements and showed he was irresponsible.

Police late today were to question Mann concerning the slaying Oct. 2, 1927, of Pearl Osten, Minneapolis music student. Miss Osten's mutilated body was found in a shed in the rear of her sister's home, where she had been living. She was 21 years old.

St. Paul, Minn., April 7.—(U.P.)—Andy Mann, 40, confessed slayer of two children and one old man, today was indicted on a first degree murder charge and is expected to be in the state prison at Stillwater before night-fall.

Mann, police said, confessed to the killing of Earl Tague, 16, St. Paul; Dorothy Aune, 12, Minneapolis; and Bob Howard, 70, St. Paul negro.

Slightly more than 50 hours after Tague's nude body was found near the municipal airport, Mann was indicted on the murder charge. Judge Hugo O. Hanft said it was the quickest indictment ever returned in Ramsey county.

Mann was arrested Saturday night in a freight car near Dubuque, Iowa. Enroute back to St. Paul yesterday, he confessed to local police that he had killed Tague because he did not like him. Questioned today, Mann made an oral confession to the killing of the Aune girl last summer in Minneapolis. The girl's body was found in two gunny sacks beside railroad tracks in South Minneapolis.

Mann, according to police officials, admitted he had set fire a week ago Saturday to a shack on the State street dump in which Howard was burned to death and Charles Conway seriously burned.

The negro will be arraigned in county district court at 2 P. M. and has indicated he will plead guilty.

In his verbal confession of the Aune killing, Mann said that he came across the girl at the place where her body later was found. The attack, he said, took place there, but he could not explain where he obtained the sacks in which the body was wrapped.

Mann was to be questioned later today in an effort to remove discrepancies in his story.

At the time of the Aune murder, police were convinced that whoever killed the girl lured her into a car and spirited her out of the neighborhood because she was not seen in the vicinity after she left home and her cap was found half a mile distant, as though it had blown out of a speeding car. The cap was found within an hour after her disappearance.

University of Minnesota scientists who made a biological examination of the Aune girl declared that the slayer was "not more than 26 years old."

St. Paul, April 7.—In solitary confinement less than 48 hours after the body of his alleged victim had been found, Andy Mann, 40, was questioned today by police in an effort to learn if he was connected with the killing of Dorothy Aune, 12, Minneapolis.

Police pointed out that both Earl Tague, 16, and the Minneapolis girl, whose body was found in two gunny sacks last summer, had been bound with wire and mutilated by their killers.

Mann was brought back from Dubuque yesterday after he had been found in a freight car Saturday night. He confessed to killing Tague, saying he did not like him.

$500,000 LOSS AT ATLANTA OFFICE BUILDING FIRE

Atlanta, April 7.—(U.P.)—Loss estimated between $500,000 and $750,000 was caused by fire which raged through the "Doctors" building here last night, ruining more than a score of delicate X-ray machines and gutting the five-story brick structure.

Between 50 and 75 physicians and surgeons maintained offices in the building.

The fire was believed to have started in the kitchen of a church restaurant on the ground floor. It roared up an elevator shaft of the central unit, spread to adjoining roofs, and down through the three wings of the building.

Gases from the chemicals generated a dangerous smoke barrier. Dr. L. G. Barrette, with offices on the third floor, was overcome while leaving after saving records.

THINK RUNAWAY OIL WELL IS NOW UNDER CONTROL

MARY SUDIK, GIANT GEYSER OF OKLAHOMA FIELD, AP-PEARS CHECKED

"CHRISTMAS TREE," HUGE STEEL
CAP, PLACED ON THE WILD SPOUTER

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 7.—(U.P.)—For the third time in the past eleven days the "runaway" Mary Sudik well, giant geyser of the South City field, appeared to be under control today.

A "Christmas tree" the oil men's nickname for a huge steel cap which has a long pipe protruding from its top in which valves are located—was clamped down on the well shortly before dusk.

Gradually pressure in the well became lessened and shortly before midnight Pat Sutton, superintendent of Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Company, owners of the well, announced he believed the big geyser had been checked.

Mud was shot into the well by high powered drills. This was to deaden the oil and gas which was created 6,000 feet below the surface in the field and which had caused the well to erupt oil, gas and sand more than 200 feet skyward.

Thousands of Sunday motorists crowded the field yesterday, all roads and highways being jammed. An extra detail of guards—composed of millionaire well owners, their roustabouts, special officers and deputy sheriffs—guarded the field. Despite the precaution of the guards, several thousand persons ventured near the giant well.

Company officials, determined that the well will be checked, announced they would seal it and abandon it if necessary. The well, drilled at a cost of $150,000, had cost more than that every three days it ran wild, they said.

Oklahoma City, April 7.—The drama of man's struggle against nature in the South City field, moved to another stage today when another large gusher came in and flowed out of control.

The No. 1 Precure well of Indian Territory Illuminating Oil and Gas Company blew in at 8 A. M. today. A huge head of oil rose over the derrick. With a roar the second head was borne higher and the gas flow was estimated at 100,000,000 cubic feet.

The Precure well is three and one half miles north of the Mary Sudik well which was tamed last night after blowing 11 days.

Check on the well had not been made an hour after it came in but veteran scouts said the gas flow of the well probably would equal that of the famous Mary Sudik gusher. A trace of oil was seen in the pure stream of gas mist that roared into the clear morning sky.

The well is located on the Shawnee-Oklahoma City highway. Buses and all motor traffic was detoured. Presence of motor cars was considered too great a hazard to the easily inflammable dry gas.

It was believed the gasser might turn into a huge gusher at any moment. The Mary Sudik flowed 36 hours before the golden flow was started.

Private Ambulance Sidewipes Motor Car in Kansas City, Mo., and Injures 28 Persons

MOWS DOWN GROUP WAITING FOR STREETCAR

DRIVER RUNS ENTIRE LENGTH OF SAFETY ZONE BEFORE
STOPPING

BYSTANDERS SAID HE TRAVEL-
LED AT RATE OF 50 MILES AN HOUR

Kansas City, Mo., April 7.—(U.P.)—With a shriek of its siren as a brief warning, a private ambulance, speeding through a busy intersection, side-swiped a motor car and swerved into a safety zone thronged with persons waiting for their homebound streetcars. The driver ran the entire length of the zone before coming to a stop.

Of the forty persons crowding the zone yesterday at least 28 were injured as the ambulance mowed them down. Six city ambulances removed the injured. Only one, James Mooney Jr., 12, was dangerously wounded. He suffered a skull fracture. Three others were taken to hospitals, while the rest were taken to their homes.

B. R. Potter, 28, who had driven the ambulance less than a week, in his first statement to police, said that he was answering a call. That statement was corroborated by another employee of the company. He admitted today, however, that he was joyriding on the way to see his sister, a nurse.

Potter claimed that he was driving only twenty-five miles an hour when he struck the other motor car driven by Benjamin E. Garlock, who was attempting to turn into another street. Garlock said the ambulance's speed was nearer 50 miles an hour.

Many of the injured said they did not hear the siren and were unaware of the approach of the ambulance. Their attention was centered on an approaching street car. Potter said he had sounded the siren continuously since leaving the garage.

IN THIS CASE IT'S THE MAN WHO PAYS AND PAYS

Los Angeles, April 7.—(U.P.)—In this case it's the man, Stafford Nychoff, 38, who pays and pays and pays and pays—alimony to four wives, count 'em:

Mrs. Vera Wychoff Bailey, wife No. 1, married in 1910, receives $150 a month for the support of a son by Wychoff.

Mrs. Adelaide Rance Wychoff, wife No. 2, is paid $30 monthly for the support of their son.

Mrs. Leona Wychoff Tannish, married in 1924, is being paid $25 a month, also for a son.

Mrs. May Wychoff, whose alimony of $100 a month brought a protest from Wychoff in superior court here, married the man in 1928 and was divorced a year later.

Wychoff's plea for a deduction on grounds that his income amounts to only $300 monthly from an eastern estate, was refused by Judge Walter Guerin.

SAYS PROHIBITION IS BEING WELL ENFORCED IN U. S.

Washington, April 7.—(U.P.)—Prohibition is being enforced so well the department of justice is confronted with a grave problem as to what to do with all the violators who are being convicted, Attorney General Mitchell told the senate judiciary committee today in an executive session.

Prosecutors are increasing, convictions are increasing and congestion of the courts is diminishing, Mitchell asserted.

LONG STANDING FILM FIGHT IS SETTLED AT LAST

INVOLVED CONTROL OVER $16-
000,000 FOX FILM AND THE-ATRE ENTERPRISES

FOX SELLS CONTROLLING INTER-ESTS IN COMPANY TO A SYNDICATE

New York, April 7.—(U.P.)—The long-standing battle over the control of the $16,000,000 Fox Film and Theater Enterprises has been settled.

Samuel Untermyer, attorney for William Fox, announced last night that the film magnate had sold his controlling interest in the companies to a syndicate, thereby ending the legal controversy which has been going on in the state and supreme courts for several months.

Fox, who nurtured a small Nickelodeon theater in Brooklyn into the gigantic film and theater business bearing his name, will continue, however, to be associated with the venture, being retained as chairman of its advisory board for five years.

"Mr. Fox has sold 151,000 of his 'B' shares that represent the control of the Fox Films and Fox Theaters Companies to a syndicate headed by Harvey L. Clarke, president of the General Theaters Equipment Company," Untermyer said, "under conditions by which Mr. Fox is satisfied. This will safeguard the future prosperity and expansion of the companies and of their army of faithful employees who have for so many years aided him in upbuilding this great enterprise from a small beginning."

Two Workmen Killed. When 5,000 Pounds of Mine Powder Explodes

Lebanon, O., April 7.—(U.P.)—Two workmen were killed at Kings Mills, eight miles south of here, today, when 5,000 pounds of mine powder exploded in the Hydraulic Press building of the King Powder company. Property damage was estimated at $10,000. The victims were Rudolph Herd, 31, and Virgil Greer, 23. A third man was injured by flying timbers. Cause of the blast was not learned.

3 CHILDREN DEAD, MOTHER BADLY HURT

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOME
NEAR RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

MRS. JOSEPH THOMPSON USED
KEROSENE TO HURRY
KITCHEN FIRE

Red Lake Falls, Minn., April 7.—(U.P.)—Three small children were dead and their mother was in the hospital today, seriously injured, after a fire which completely destroyed their farm home seven miles north of here.

The dead are Delbert, four years old, Elvie, two and a half years old, and Elizabeth Ann, seven months, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson.

Mrs. Thompson, her three children, Mrs. Pauline Vezener, sister-in-law of Mrs. Thompson, and her small son were alone in the house when the fire broke out.

Mrs. Thompson had risen early to get the Sunday morning breakfast, leaving her children still in bed and Mrs. Vezener and her small son upstairs.

Having trouble getting the fire to burn, she took a can of kerosene and poured it on the coals to hurry the blaze. The kerosene exploded, burning her severely about the face and body and spreading fire rapidly about the room.

Mrs. Vezener, escape down the stairway cut off, threw her small son to safety and jumped out of the second story window herself, spraining both ankles. The child was uninjured.

The Thompson children were burned to death before they could be rescued. Thompson, the father of the children, was away from home at the time of the fire, visiting relatives in Becker county.

MEMORIES OF HISTORIC STORM ARE REVIVED

Appleton, Wis., April 7.—(U.P.)—Memories of the historic storm which lashed the Great Lakes regions last October 22 and sent the car ferry Milwaukee to the bottom of Lake Michigan with a loss of more than 500 lives will be revived here this week with a burial of two Lawrence college students whose lives were lost in the same storm.

The bodies, those of Theodore Bolton and Carl Roth, both 19 and both sophomores at Lawrence were found in Lake Winnebago, one Saturday night and the other Sunday.

On the evening that the storm, one of the most terrific in the history of Wisconsin, struck this region, Bolton and Roth were duck hunting in a row boat out into the lake and, with only sticks as oars, they were unable to propel it back to shore. They were last seen about a mile out, both standing up in the boat waving their arms wildly. Their caps were found a few days later.

FOUR WARSHIPS TO CONVOY BODY OF QUEEN TO SWEDEN

Stockholm, Sweden, April 7.—(U.P.)—Four warships will proceed to Swinemunde, Germany, to convey the body of Queen Victoria of Sweden across the Baltic to Stockholm for funeral services here Saturday afternoon.

The queen will be buried in the historic Riddarholm Skyrkan here. The arrival in Stockholm harbor is scheduled for 2 p. m. next Saturday. The funeral cortege will pass through the city to the Riddarholm Skyrkan, where final rites will be observed.

It was expected Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus would command the funeral fleet, accompanying his mother on her last journey.

NEW YORK PAYS TRIBUTE TO CAPTAIN HAWKS

FIRST MAN TO CROSS CONTIN-ENT IN GLIDER TOWED
BY AIRPLANE

15,000 PEOPLE GREET FLIER AT VAN CORTLAND PARK IN NEW YORK

New York, April 7.—(U.P.)—New York paid tribute to Captain Frank M. Hawks, the first man to cross the continent in a glider towed by an airplane.

Out of a leaden sky yesterday afternoon Hawks glided his powerless craft within sight of 15,000 people waiting in the drizzle at Van Cortland Park, and brought the "eagle" down to earth in a series of graceful spirals, ending the eight-day trip from San Diego, California, in schedule time despite the handicaps and a rough trip from Buffalo.

The flir, who also holds the records for non-stop flight across the country, was greeted by his wife. The crowd cheered and appeared about to mob Hawks, but were kept back by the mounted policemen.

Hawks exhibited blistering hands, caused by an all day battle with controls as the light craft was buffeted about by head winds and air currents. Questioned about the possibility of future air trains carrying passengers and freight, he merely said they were possible developments.

But the glider has other advantages which, in Hawks' opinion, are even more important. He revealed in a radio speech. He said it provided a less expensive form of aviation experience, and ought to serve to make flying more popular.

BOMB APARTMENT OF CHICAGO OFFICIAL

MEMBERS OF FAMILY THROWN FROM BEDS, STRUCTURE BADLY DAMAGED

Chicago, April 7.—(U.P.)—Bombing of the apartment home of Attorney Alexander, an assistant corporation counsel in the first administration of Mayor William Hale Thompson, threw members of the family from their beds and badly damaged the structure today.

Alexander, his wife and three sons, who live on the first floor of the apartment building, and three of his brother-in-laws, Maurice, Ryby and Charles Stern, who live on the second floor, were shaken by the blast.

Benold Stern, a fourth brother-in-law, who was just arriving home, said he saw two young men in an automobile speed away from the curb.

Neither Alexander nor the Stern brothers, dealers in scrap iron, could advance any motive for the attack. Alexander said he had taken no part in the present political campaign and the Stern brothers declared they had had no labor trouble.

Police estimated damage at $1,500.

YOUNG DU PONT LEARNS TO MAKE AIRPLANE BED

Detroit, April 7.—(U.P.)—A. Felix DuPont, Jr., 24-year-old heir to the millions of his Wilmington, Del., father, has learned to make a bed.

Qualified as an airplane mechanic and pilot, young DuPont now also can pass muster as a porter. Employed by the Fokker Aircraft Co., DuPont flew to Detroit in the company's luxurious 32-passenger job. After passengers landed, DuPont aided the other mechanics and the porters in cleaning up the ship.

It was all familiar work until he came to the bed making proposition. After four ineffectual efforts to smooth the sheets and turn the counterpane DuPont gave up and called on the head porter for instructions.

ARE G. O. P. AND DEMOCRATIC PARTY CHAIRMEN

HUSTON TAKES STAND THAT DISCLOSURES MADE ARE NO
CAUSE FOR RETIRING

DEMOCRATIC STATEMENTS ON PROHIBITION ARE BEING AIRED IN INVESTIGATION

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, April 7.—The political fight raging around the republican and democratic party chairmen, Claudius Huston and John J. Raskob, was further complicated today when two authoritative republican spokesmen passed around the word that Huston did not intend to resign.

The report was circulated among republican leaders in the senate as the lobby committee prepared to submit a report on the Huston case and as the republicans prepared to continue their inquiry into Raskob's wet activities.

Huston has taken the position that disclosures before the lobby committee did not constitute sufficient cause to retire.

Huston's resignation has been considered almost a certainty by most of the party leaders up to now. It is said by these leaders even President Hoover was expecting it, although he did not intend to ask for it. The news that Huston will not quit has reached democratic ears and is expected to play an important part in the senatorial discussion when the report drawn by the democrats is submitted for action.

The report merely sets forth the facts about Huston's use of a $36,000 contribution to the Tennessee River Improvement Association to bolster his margin account with a New York broker. No recommendation is made, and it is possible the sole regular republican member of the committee, Robinson of Indiana, may endorse it. It is reported, however, a certain senator would propose a resolution censuring Huston. Robinson would strongly contest this, it is said. The report is expected within a day or two.

While the Huston case is being prepared for senatorial trial, Robinson will continue tomorrow his efforts to find out what democratic leaders are doing about prohibition. Following up his examination of Raskob last Friday, Robinson will question Joseph Daniels, prominent dry democrat of North Carolina, and Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which has received $66,000 in contributions from Raskob during the last five years.

Robinson is seeking to show the rift between Raskob and Daniels over the prohibition issue. He believes it may have a material influence upon the Huston case and upon the coming congressional elections.

This and other aspects of the prohibition controversy are also slated for senatorial airing.

A dry argument is scheduled for the senate floor. Sen. Brookhart, republican, Iowa, promises to make a reply to the address last week by Sen. Tydings, wet democrat, Maryland, who cited statistics purporting to show prohibition had failed to decrease crime and drunkenness.

The Harris immigration bill stood on the senate legislative calendar for attention as soon as other things are out of the way.

B. R. Potter, 28, who had driven the ambulance less than a week, in his first statement to police, said that he was answering a call. That statement was corroborated by another employee of the company. He admitted today, however, that he was joyriding on the way to see his sister, a nurse.

Potter claimed that he was driving only twenty-five miles an hour when he struck the other motor car driven by Benjamin E. Garlock, who was attempting to turn into another street. Garlock said the ambulance's speed was nearer 50 miles an hour.

Many of the injured said they did not hear the siren and were unaware of the approach of the ambulance. Their attention was centered on an approaching street car. Potter said he had sounded the siren continuously since leaving the garage.

IN THIS CASE IT'S THE MAN WHO PAYS AND PAYS

Los Angeles, April 7.—(U.P.)—In this case it's the man, Stafford Nychoff, 33, who pays and pays and pays and pays—alimony to four wives, count 'em:

Mrs. Vera Wychoff Bailey, wife No. 1, married in 1910, receives $150 a month for the support of a son by Wychoff.

Mrs. Adelaide Rance Wychoff, wife No. 2, is paid $30 monthly for the support of their son.

Mrs. Leona Wychoff Tannish, married in 1924, is being paid $25 a month, also for a son.

Mrs. May Wychoff, whose alimony of $100 a month brought a protest from Wychoff in superior court here, married the man in 1928 and was divorced a year later.

Wychoff's plea for a deduction on grounds that his income amounts to only $300 monthly from an eastern estate, was refused by Judge Walter Guerin.

SAYS PROHIBITION IS BEING WELL ENFORCED IN U. S.

Washington, April 7.—(U.P.)—Prohibition is being enforced so well the department of justice is confronted with a grave problem as to what to do with all the violators who are being convicted, Attorney General Mitchell told the senate judiciary committee today in an executive session.

Prosecutors are increasing, convictions are increasing and congestion of the courts is diminishing, Mitchell asserted.

LONG STANDING FILM FIGHT IS SETTLED AT LAST

INVOLVED CONTROL OVER $16,000,000 FOX FILM AND THEATRE ENTERPRISES

FOX SELLS CONTROLLING INTERESTS IN COMPANY TO A SYNDICATE

New York, April 7.—(U.P.)—The long-standing battle over the control of the $16,000,000 Fox Film and Theatre Enterprises has been settled.

Samuel Untermyer, attorney for William Fox, announced last night that the film magnate had sold his controlling interest in the companies to a syndicate, thereby ending the legal controversy which has been going on in the state and supreme courts for several months.

Fox, who nurtured a small Nikelodeon theater in Brooklyn into the gigantic film and theater business bearing his name, will continue, however, to be associated with the venture, being retained as chairman of its advisory board for five years.

"Mr. Fox has sold 151,000 of his 'B' shares that represent the control of the Fox Films and Fox Theaters Companies to a syndicate headed by Harvey L. Clarke, president of the General Theaters Equipment Company," Untermyer said, "under conditions by which Mr. Fox is satisfied. This will safeguard the future prosperity and expansion of the companies and of their army of faithful employees who have for so many years aided him in upbuilding this great enterprise from a small beginning."

3 CHILDREN DEAD, MOTHER BADLY HURT

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOME NEAR RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

MRS. JOSEPH THOMPSON USED KEROSENE TO HURRY KITCHEN FIRE

Red Lake Falls, Minn., April 7.—(U.P.)—Three small children were dead and their mother was in the hospital today, seriously injured, after a fire which completely destroyed their farm home seven miles north of here.

The dead are Delbert, four years old, Elvie, two and a half years old, and Elizabeth Ann, seven months, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson.

Mrs. Thompson, her three children, Mrs. Pauline Vezener, sister-in-law of Mrs. Thompson, and her small son were alone in the house when the fire broke out.

Mrs. Thompson had risen early to get the Sunday morning breakfast, leaving her children still in bed and Mrs. Vezener and her small son upstairs. Having trouble getting the fire to burn, she took a can of kerosene and poured it on the coals to hurry the blaze. The kerosene exploded, burning her severely about the face and body and spreading fire rapidly about the room.

Mrs. Vezener, escape down the stairway cut off, threw her small son to safety and jumped out of the second story window herself, spraining both ankles. The child was uninjured.

The Thompson children were burned to death before they could be rescued. Thompson, the father of the children, was away from home at the time of the fire, visiting relatives in Becker county.

MEMORIES OF HISTORIC STORM ARE REVIVED

Appleton, Wis., April 7.—(U.P.)—Memories of the historic storm which lashed the Great Lakes regions last October 22 and sent the car ferry Milwaukee to the bottom of Lake Michigan with a loss of more than 500 lives will be revived here this week with a burial of two Lawrence college students whose lives were lost in the same storm.

The bodies, those of Theodore Bolton and Carl Roth, both 19 and both sophomores at Lawrence were found in Lake Winnebago, one Saturday night and the other Sunday.

On the evening that the storm, one of the most terrific in the history of Wisconsin, struck this region, Bolton and Roth were duck hunting in a row boat out into the lake and, with only sticks as oars, they were unable to propel it back to shore. They were last seen about a mile out, both standing up in the boat waving their arms wildly. Their caps were found a few days later.

NEW YORK PAYS TRIBUTE TO CAPTAIN HAWKS

FIRST MAN TO CROSS CONTINENT IN GLIDER TOWED BY AIRPLANE

15,000 PEOPLE GREET FLIER AT VAN CORTLAND PARK IN NEW YORK

New York, April 7.—(U.P.)—New York paid tribute to Captain Frank M. Hawks, the first man to cross the continent in a glider towed by an airplane.

Out of a leaden sky yesterday afternoon Hawks glided his powerless craft within sight of 15,000 people waiting in the drizzle at Van Cortland Park, and brought the "eagle" down to earth in a series of graceful spirals, ending the eight-day trip from San Diego, California, in schedule time despite the handicaps and a rough trip from Buffalo.

The flier, who also holds the records for non-stop flight across the country, was greeted by his wife. The crowd cheered and appeared about to mob Hawks, but were kept back by the mounted policemen.

Hawks exhibited blistering hands, caused by an all day battle with controls as the light craft was buffeted about by head winds and air currents. Questioned about the possibility of future air trains carrying passengers and freight, he merely said they were possible developments.

But the glider has other advantages which, in Hawks' opinion, are even more important, he revealed in a radio speech. He said it provided a less expensive form of aviation experience, and ought to serve to make flying more popular.

BOMB APARTMENT OF CHICAGO OFFICIAL

MEMBERS OF FAMILY THROWN FROM BEDS, STRUCTURE BADLY DAMAGED

Chicago, April 7.—(U.P.)—Bombing of the apartment home of Attorney Alexander, an assistant corporation counsel in the first administration of Mayor William Hale Thompson, threw members of the family from their beds and badly damaged the structure today.

Alexander, his wife and three sons, who live on the first floor of the apartment building, and three of his brother-in-laws, Maurice, Ryby and Charles Stern, who live on the second floor, were shaken by the blast.

Benold Stern, a fourth brother-in-law, who was just arriving home, said he saw two young men in an automobile speed away from the curb.

Neither Alexander nor the Stern brothers, dealers in scrap iron, could advance any motive for the attack. Alexander said he had taken no part in the present political campaign and the Stern brothers declared they had had no labor trouble.

Police estimated damage at $1,500.

YOUNG DU PONT LEARNS TO MAKE AIRPLANE BED

Detroit, April 7.—(U.P.)—A. Felix DuPont, Jr., 24-year-old heir to the millions of his Wilmington, Del., father, has learned to make a bed.

Qualified as an airplane mechanic and pilot, young DuPont now also can pass muster as a porter. Employed by the Fokker Aircraft Co., DuPont flew to Detroit in the company's luxurious 32-passenger jib. After passengers landed, DuPont aided the other mechanics and the porters in cleaning up the ship.

It was all familiar work until he came to the bed making proposition. After four ineffectual efforts to smooth the sheets and turn the counterpane DuPont gave up and called on the head porter for instructions.

ARE G. O. P. AND DEMOCRATIC PARTY CHAIRMEN

HUSTON TAKES STAND THAT DISCLOSURES MADE ARE NO CAUSE FOR RETIRING

DEMOCRATIC STATEMENTS ON PROHIBITION ARE BEING AIRED IN INVESTIGATION

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, April 7.—The political fight raging around the republican and democratic party chairmen, Claudius Huston and John J. Raskob, was further complicated today when two authoritative republican spokesmen passed around the word that Huston did not intend to resign.

The report was circulated among republican leaders in the senate as the lobby committee prepared to submit a report on the Huston case and as the republicans prepared to continue their inquiry into Raskob's wet activities.

Huston has taken the position that disclosures before the lobby committee did not constitute sufficient cause to retire.

Huston's resignation has been considered almost a certainty by most of the party leaders up to now. It is said by these leaders even President Hoover was expecting it, although he did not intend to ask for it. The news that Huston will not quit has reached democratic ears and is expected to play an important part in the senatorial discussion when the report drawn by the democrats is submitted for action.

The report merely sets forth the facts about Huston's use of a $48,000 contribution to the Tennessee River Improvement Association to bolster his margin account with a New York broker. No recommendation is made, and it is possible the sole regular republican member of the committee, Robinson of Indiana, may endorse it. It is reported, however, a certain senator would propose a resolution censuring Huston. Robinson would strongly contest this, it is said. The report is expected within a day or two.

While the Huston case is being prepared for senatorial trial, Robinson will continue tomorrow his efforts to find out what democratic leaders are doing about prohibition. Following his examination of Raskob last Friday, Robinson will question Josephus Daniels, prominent dry democrat of North Carolina, and Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which has received $66,000 in contributions from Raskob during the last five years.

Robinson is seeking to show the rift between Raskob and Daniels over the prohibition issue. He believes it may have a material influence upon the Huston case and upon the coming congressional elections.

This and other aspects of the prohibition controversy are also slated for senatorial airing.

A dry argument is scheduled for the senate floor. Sen. Brookhart, republican, Iowa, promises to make a reply to the address last week by Sen. Tydings, wet democrat, Maryland, who cited statistics purporting to show prohibition had failed to decrease crime and drunkenness.

The Harris immigration bill stood on the senate legislative calendar for attention as soon as other things are out of the way.

The Northern Rail Merger

THE proposed rail merger of the Northern, the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, as identified in a plan set forth by the Interstate Commerce Commission, has aroused the opposition of the Northwest as represented by Minnesota's delegation of congressmen and the governor of Minnesota, and that of other states along the lines of the railways.

Governor Christianson has set the state's legal machinery in motion to block the proposed merging of the two railways. States which have gone on record as opposed to the merger have been asked to join in the movement.

The Minnesota delegation in congress urged the governor to start action to get a temporary restraining order in the courts, forestalling the merger until Congress has time to complete an investigation and pass on measures now pending which the delegation believes "will protect the public interests."

The governor, as reported in the St. Paul Pioneer Press, sent this telegram to Congressman Harold Knutson:

"More than two years ago the State of Minnesota, through its Railroad and Warehouse Commission and its Attorney General, filed a brief and appeared in hearings at St. Paul and Washington in opposition to proposed consolidation of Great Northern and Northern Pacific. Through Minnesota's influence other states were induced to oppose merger.

"Twenty states or more joined in movement and are parties of record. Suggest that Minnesota delegation in Congress invite co-operation of delegation of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Washington, Iowa and Wisconsin, particularly as these states have been active in movement opposing merger. Arrangements have heretofore been made to have two members of local commission, accompanied by its engineer and its investigator and at least one member of Attorney General's staff, to leave here April 12 for Washington to consult with similar representatives of other interested states to decide on future courses before Interstate Commerce Commission, including appeal to the courts, and to assist in securing Congressional action.

Meanwhile Attorney General of Minnesota will study possible legal grounds for injunction proceedings to delay action by Interstate Commerce Commission pending investigation and action by Congress."

The telegram sent by the Minnesota Congressional delegation to the Governor reads:

"Members of the Minnesota delegation in Congress view with deep concern the pending consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads which was first proposed 30 years ago and prevented through the energetic efforts of former Governor Van Sant. We feel you should immediately set in motion the legal machinery of the State or Minnesota to secure a temporary restraining order until Congress shall have had an opportunity to pass upon measures now pending to investigate the situation with a view to safeguarding the people's interests. We will co-operate with you in every possible way."

Saving Food

EVER since the war families have followed the teachings of Hoover to save food. Waste in any way is characterized as thoughtless action, calling for a reprimand and censure.

A household which allows waste to creep in finds that it is an added expense. It manifests itself in many ways, waste in preparation of food, in careless buying, in careless serving and then in foolish habits of some people to load a plate with delicacies and then only nibble on the portions.

Surveying the high school cafeteria one finds no indication of any waste whatever. Previous notice must be given of attendance at the luncheon so that only so much food is cooked as is guaranteed to be eaten. There is no waste and when some 60 or 70 children have finished their noonday luncheon, and each one has a hearty appetite, the job of dish washing is not so very hard.

Contrast that with a luncheon club of adults which spoiled some half a dozen plates of food at a hotel in perpetrating an April Fool joke. Such a "joke" is a senseless affair and at the same time violates the injunction of any careful housewife not to waste food.

Advent of Baseball

THE baseball season will soon be opened and that brings thoughts about the great national game. One of the great inalienable rights of the people is that of razzing the umpire. This full and free discussion of strikes and balls and decisions at the bases gives every man full play of his vocal organs. The fan is satisfied to talk, regardless of whether he has a listener or not.

In direct contrast to this is the calm pervading a high school basketball game where criticism of the referee may result in penalizing a team.

A GROUP of University of Minnesota undergraduates with high school scholastic standing will be selected to join a party of 25 students from universities in the United States on an educational tour of Sweden, to be conducted this summer by Professor George M. Stephenson of the University history department.

MINNESOTA MUNICIPALITIES, April edition, states that Brainerd citizens inspected the new Washington high school at a two-day open house session. The building has been widely praised.

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

Read the advertisements for your own good . . . classified columns as well as display advertisements

The telegram sent by the Minnesota Congressional delegation to the Governor reads:

"Members of the Minnesota delegation in Congress view with deep concern the pending consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads which was first proposed 30 years ago and prevented through the energetic efforts of former Governor Van Sant. We feel you should immediately set in motion the legal machinery of the State of Minnesota to secure a temporary restraining order until Congress shall have had an opportunity to pass upon measures now pending to investigate the situation with a view to safeguarding the people's interests. We will co-operate with you in every possible way."

Saving Food

EVER since the war families have followed the teachings of Hoover to save food. Waste in any way is characterized as thoughtless action, calling for a reprimand and censure.

A household which allows waste to creep in finds that it is an added expense. It manifests itself in many ways, waste in preparation of food, in careless buying, in careless serving and then in foolish habits of some people to load a plate with delicacies and then only nibble on the portions.

Surveying the high school cafeteria one finds no indication of any waste whatever. Previous notice must be given of attendance at the luncheon so that only so much food is cooked as is guaranteed to be eaten. There is no waste and when some 60 or 70 children have finished their noonday luncheon, and each one has a hearty appetite, the job of dish washing is not so very hard.

Contrast that with a luncheon club of adults which spoiled some half a dozen plates of food at a hotel in perpetrating an April Fool joke. Such a "joke" is a senseless affair and at the same time violates the injunction of any careful housewife not to waste food.

Advent of Baseball

THE baseball season will soon be opened and that brings thoughts about the great national game. One of the great inalienable rights of the people is that of razzing the umpire. This full and free discussion of strikes and balls and decisions at the bases gives every man full play of his vocal organs. The fan is satisfied to talk, regardless of whether he has a listener or not.

In direct contrast to this is the calm pervading a high school basketball game where criticism of the referee may result in penalizing a team.

A GROUP of University of Minnesota undergraduates with high school scholastic standing will be selected to join a party of 25 students from universities in the United States on an educational tour of Sweden, to be conducted this summer by Professor George M. Stephenson of the University history department.

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

BABE RUTH GETS CHARLEY HORSE IN EXHIBITION GAME

LEG GAVE WAY AS HE ROUNDED SECOND BASE

HAPPENED SUNDAY IN YANKEE
GAME WITH DALLAS, TEXAS
LEAGUE CLUB

YANKEE FANS WONDER IF SAME THING MAY HAPPEN IN REGULAR GAMES

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, April 7. — Babe Ruth's charley horse emphasized today the uncertainty of the New York Yankees' position in the 1930 American League pennant race.

Rounding second base in an exhibition game against the Dallas Texas League club Sunday, Ruth's leg gave way on him and Yankee fans here wondered how many times during the regular season the same thing might happen.

Ruth was out of 19 games last season, and if he is out of that many again this season the Yankees will be seriously handicapped.

The problems concerning the Yankees are numerous and may be listed, in their order of importance, as follows:

1. Babe Ruth and his physical condition.
2. Two veteran pitchers, Herb Pennock and Waite Hoyt, and two young pitchers, Vernon Gomez and Americus Poll.
3. The two rookies assigned to regular roles, Duty Cooke in left field and Ben Chapman at third base.
4. Lou Gehrig and his hitting.
5. The ability of the new manager, Bob Shawkey, to handle the players.

The collapse of Pennock and Hoyt last season practically cost the Yankees what chance they had of winning the pennant. Hoyt won 10 and lost 9 and Pennock won 9 and lost 11. The previous year they won 40 and lost only 13 between them.

Hoyt has been working hard to stage a comeback and Pennock seems to be in better shape than last year.

The fate of Cooke, who hit .358 for St. Paul last season, and Chapman, who hit .336 for the same club, cannot be determined until they are tested.

Gehrig slumped from .374 in 1928 to .300 last season and his fielding suffered accordingly. He is determined to stage a comeback, and as this is only his sixth year in the majors the odds are in his favor.

Shawkey, making his managerial debut, has made many radical changes from the Miller Huggins' system, but his tactics appear to be the result of necessity as much as anything else. Shawkey is under a one-year contract and says he will quit if he doesn't make good. Already he has had to dispose of Fred Heimach, who won 11 and lost 6 last year, as a warning to the other players.

ATHENS, TEXAS, AGAIN WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Chicago, April 7.—(U.P.)—For the second time in two years the pennant emblematic of the interscholastic basketball championship of the United States floated from the flagpole of Athens, Texas, high school today.

When the Texans trimmed Jena, La., 22 to 16, in the final game of the tournament Saturday night, it marked the first time in history that the national championship had been won by the same institution twice.

It was a heart breaking defeat for the lads from the cross roads town of Jena for since early winter they had spent their nights in either the town's only grocery store or the high school gym promising the home folk a national title. So convinced were the citizens that they collected enough money to send the team to the tournament.

7 CONTESTANTS IN CENTRAL MINN. HALF MILE RELAY

MONTEVIDEO, WINNER LAST YEAR, REPEATS AND ESTABLISHES A NEW RECORD

EACH OF FOUR MEN RAN 1 LAP,
220 YARDS, NEW MARK IS 1:40.9
AT MINN. FIELD HOUSE

(By JOHN A. HOFBAUER)

Brairerd high school, in its first appearance at a University of Minnesota relay meet, ran fifth in the Central Minnesota half mile relay Saturday evening. There were seven contestants, Montevideo high, Brairerd high, Crosby-Ironton high, St. Cloud Tech, Aitkin high, Little Falls high and Moorhead high. Each of four men ran one lap (220 yards).

Last year Montevideo set a mark of 1:42.0 for the race and this year again won the relay, establishing a new mark of 1:40.9. St. Cloud Tech came in second, Crosby-Ironton third, Little Falls fourth and Brairerd fifth. Montevideo had three men who had run the race last year. The school has a track which of course is a great aid in training.

Brairerd runners were Lammon, Schuety, Herman and Hoffbauer. Reserves were Hautala and Garvey. Coach Warren E. Kasch accompanied his charges. The team and coach were shown every courtesy and after the meet were entertained with other visiting teams and coaches at the Minnesota Union. In the afternoon the boys saw Minnesota men in football practice.

The field house track was fast, for many records were made. Eleven records fell. Sam Behr of Wisconsin bettered his own distance in shot put.

Pine City won the opening race, the Little Eight high school half-mile relay. Time was 1:44.1, a tenth of a second slower than the time made by Mora in the event last year.

South high won the Minneapolis high school medley relay in 3:30.5, which was 5.5 seconds faster than West made it last year. Washburn high was second and Edison high third.

In the running high jump E. L. Gordon of Iowa, of Olympic fame, jumped six feet and Sam Behr of Wisconsin and H. Ridgeway of Carleton tied for second and third places with five feet 10 inches.

In the Minnesota College mile relay, Macalester was first, Gustavus Adolphus second and Hamline third. The time of 3:31.1 established another record, breaking last year's mark of 3:36 made by Hamline. There were but three entries, the last man badly distanced.

There were four entries in the South Minnesota high school half mile relay. Stillwater placed first, Cannon Falls second and White Bear Lake third. Time was slower than last year, 1:41.1.

In the shotput (16 lbs.) limited to college men, Sam Behr of Wisconsin scored 48 feet 9 and three-quarter inches, which is two feet 8 inches farther than he did in 1929. Munn of Minnesota landed second, Roberts of Iowa third and Truesdale of Hamline fourth.

St. Paul Central high won the St. Paul high school half mile relay in 1:40.9, breaking last year's record. Thompson of Wisconsin was first in the special three-quarter mile run (6 laps) time 3:13.5.

In the Gopher special half mile relay, Shattuck was first, St. Paul Athletic Club second, Minneapolis Central Y. M. C. A. third, time being 1:35.4.

Yankton college won the Dakota college mile relay in 3:35.8, Augustana was second and Huron third.

Aurora won the range high school half mile relay in 1:39.1 with Virginia second and Eveleth third.

Alpha Tau Omega won first place in the University Interfraternity relay in 1:45.5. Nagurski's Sigma Chi ran third. Phi Gamma Delta was second.

The 60-yard dash was thrilling. John Mass of Minnesota University jumped five feet at the bark of the gun and kept that lead to the finish, making it in 6.3 seconds. The world's record is 6.2 seconds.

E. L. Gordon of Iowa tried to break the world mark in the broad jump, 24 feet 7 and a half inches. In four trials the Iowan made 23 feet eleven and a quarter inches, 23 feet ten and a quarter inches, 24 feet five inches and 23 feet nine and a half inches. The Brairerd boys watched his leg motion as he hurtled through the air. Gordon keeps on pedalling as he swings through space.

Six more events on the relay bill crowded in and Coach Sherman Finger's events came within ten minutes of following the time schedule outlined.

The Minneapolis high school half mile relay was a mixup. Runners were swept off the curves, fell down when exchanging batons, one handed his baton to the wrong team, another lost his and quit the running.

The crowd was not by any means as large as a state basketball tournament. The university band played.

Of course the spitter earns your disgust ... his filthy habit is revolting. Why not feel the same way about the old-fashioned cigar ... the cigar rolled by dirty fingers and tipped with spit? Remember, more than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo — see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

There were seven contestants, Montevideo high, Brainerd high, Crosby-Ironton high, St. Cloud Tech, Aitkin high, Little Falls high and Moorhead high. Each of four men ran one lap (220 yards).

Last year Montevideo set a mark of 1:42.0 for the race and this year again won the relay, establishing a new mark of 1:40.9. St. Cloud Tech came in second, Crosby-Ironton third, Little Falls fourth and Brainerd fifth. Montevideo had three men who had run the race last year. The school has a track which of course is a great aid in training.

Brainerd runners were Lammon, Schuetz, Herman and Hoffbauer. Reserves were Haulala and Garvey. Coach Warren E. Kasch accompanied his charges. The team and coach were shown every courtesy and after the meet were entertained with other visiting teams and coaches at the Minnesota Union. In the afternoon the boys saw Minnesota men in football practice.

The field house track was fast, for many records were made. Eleven records fell. Sam Behr of Wisconsin bettered his own distance in shot put.

Pine City won the opening race, the Little Eight high school half-mile relay. Time was 1:44.1, a tenth of a second slower than the time made by Mora in the event last year.

South high won the Minneapolis high school medley relay in 3:30.5, which was 5.5 seconds faster than West made it last year. Washburn high was second and Edison high third.

In the running high jump E. L. Gordon of Iowa, of Olympic fame, jumped six feet and Sam Behr of Wisconsin and H. Ridgeway of Carleton tied for second and third places with five feet 10 inches.

In the Minnesota College mile relay, Macalester was first, Gustavus Adolphus second and Hamline third. The time of 3:31.1 established another record, breaking last year's mark of 3:36 made by Hamline. There were but three entries, the last man badly distanced.

There were four entries in the South Minnesota high school half mile relay. Stillwater placed first, Cannon Falls second and White Bear Lake third. Time was slower than last year, 1:41.1. In the shotput (16 lbs.) limited to college men, Sam Behr of Wisconsin scored 48 feet 9 and three-quarter inches, which is two feet 8 inches farther than he did in 1929. Munn of Minnesota landed second, Roberts of Iowa third and Truesdale of Hamline fourth.

St. Paul Central high won the St. Paul high school half mile relay in 1:40.9, breaking last year's record.

Thompson of Wisconsin was first in the special three-quarter mile run (6 laps) time 3:13.5.

In the Gopher special half mile relay, Shattuck was first, St. Paul Athletic Club second, Minneapolis Central Y. M. C. A. third, time being 1:35.4.

Yankton college won the Dakota college mile relay in 3:35.8, Augustana was second and Huron third.

Aurora won the range high school half mile relay in 1:39.1 with Virginia second and Eveleth third.

Alpha Tau Omega won first place in the University Interfraternity relay in 1:45.5. Nagurski's Sigma Chi ran third. Phi Gamma Delta was second.

The 60-yard dash was thrilling. John Mass of Minnesota University jumped five feet at the bark of the gun and kept that lead to the finish, making it in 6.3 seconds. The world's record is 6.2 seconds.

E. L. Gordon of Iowa tried to break the world mark in the broad jump, 24 feet 7 and a half inches. In four trials the Iowan made 23 feet eleven and a quarter inches, 23 feet ten and a quarter inches, 24 feet five inches and 23 feet nine and a half inches. The Brainerd boys watched his leg motion as he hurtled through the air. Gordon keeps on pedalling as he swings through space.

Six more events on the relay bill crowded in and Coach Sherman Finger's events came within ten minutes of following the time schedule outlined.

The Minneapolis high school half mile relay was a mixup. Runners were swept off the curves, fell down when exchanging batons, one handed his baton to the wrong team, another lost his and quit the running.

The crowd was not by any means as large as a state basketball tournament. The university band played.

Returns From Modernizing the Home Are Great

PROPERTY INCREASES GREATLY IN VALUE

Modernized House Is Easy to Sell or Rent

Only a person who has modernized his home realizes the actual returns that come with the improvement of his dwelling.

Many property owners who contemplate improving their property hesitate to go ahead with their plans because they see only the bill for the modernizing. The cost in dollars and cents proves to be an obstacle in their particular case.

Yet when everything is considered the returns from modernizing more than offset the cash expenditures that are made.

Average Cost Is $2,000

A study of over 100,000 homes indicates that the average cost of modernizing a home such as is owned by the usual property owner, is $2,000. This figure includes the cost of modernizing both inside and out.

These figures are authentic, being secured from a state wide survey made by a league of building and loan associations. The figures were obtained when the home owners went to the various local associations to negotiate loans, and cover only those loans needed for modernizing.

Returns Are Great

An old house valued at $6,000 is modernized at a cost of $2,000. Theoretically its value is increased to $8,000, yet actually the modernized residence is worth, not $8,000, but $9,000 or $10,000. The investment in this property has increased its value from 12½% to 15%.

Instances to prove this are common. More than one owner of a modernized property has had a buyer approach with an attractive proposition after the work has been completed. The old house when made up-to-date becomes one of the most attractive in the community and its desirability immediately increases.

Modernize Both Interior and Exterior

It is not enough to modernize the interior of the house to the exclusion of the exterior. When future property values are to be considered, it is essential to modernize the exterior lines also. The attention of the outsider is always attracted first to the exterior appearance and the value of the house is first judged by its appearance from the street.

Owners who modernize the interior and neglect the exterior find that their property does not increase in the same ratio. No matter how attractive the interior decoration and how convenient the appliances with which the home is equipped, the owner still has an old appearing house if the exterior lines have not been changed.

The wise home owner is going to improve both interior and exterior. By so doing he is insuring a certain increase in the value of his property. He is making it more valuable.

Modernized House a New One

When the exterior lines of a house have been modernized, the dwelling virtually becomes a new one. To strangers there is nothing to identify the residence as being one built twenty or thirty years ago.

WITH MODERNIZATION CAME THIS STATELY HOME

Here's a striking contrast. The old frame house to the left has been modernized and is now the dignified brick residence above.

HANDSOME BRICK RESIDENCE FORMERLY OLD FRAME HOUSE

It really is marvelous what modernization can do when it is given a chance to do a thorough job. The illustrations on this page are a good index to the benefits that come when an old piece of property is improved and made modern.

At the bottom is an old frame structure, an ordinary two-story affair built back in the days when a horseless carriage was an event. Once this house was one of the handsomest on the street, but the passing of the years have left it stranded. Before modernization came, it was neglected and deserted, an eyesore of the neighborhood, for it was rapidly falling into a state of decay.

Modernization Works Wonders

Yet what a change when modernization came. Touched by the magic of modernization the old frame house became transmuted into a handsome brick veneer dwelling, showing to the left. When the builders set to work, they tore away the two porches that may be noted in the lower illustration. These shallow open porches were typical of the architecture of many years ago and had little character or utility. In their place was constructed small porches of a Colonial style with sharply pitched roofs. The larger porch to the front has two round white pillars supporting the roof, while the one to the side, being smaller, is supported from the wall. These porches are trimmed in white, making a striking contrast to the main color of the house.

Brick veneer was chosen as the siding because of its durability and permanence, its fireproof attributes, and its handsome appearance. Brick houses have an atmosphere of their own—they promote an air of dignity and worth and impart a feeling that their owners are solid and substantial citizens.

New Window Openings

New window trim and a complete rearrangement of the window openings and their location came with modernization. The large front window on the lower floor has been succeeded by a bay containing three double hung sash, the uppers being divided into six small panes. Above at the front the three windows have been regrouped, a single one remaining over the entrance, the other two now in one opening, thus giving more and better lighting to the interior. More windows also are now used in the side elevations. The trim of these windows in every case is white, blending with the porches in presenting a contrast that accentuates the architectural lines of the building.

The doors are of a Colonial design, in keeping with the motif of the porch. The door at the front contains beautiful panel work with no lights, the side lights alone allowing the entrance of daylight to the hall. At the side, however, the door is composed of small panes of glass. Over the front door is a "fan light" of glass.

Roof Lines Changed

The old pitch roof which aided in giving the original building a stark, upright appearance was torn away and a slate roof substituted. The roof is now of the mansard type and will last without attention for a decade or two.

New concrete walks have been built. Note in the upper illustration the trellis work forming an arch over the walk leading to the rear of the house.

Landscaping has been started, a number of shrubs having been set out near the foundations of the residence. The main entrance is flanked by dwarf pines.

New Interior Plan

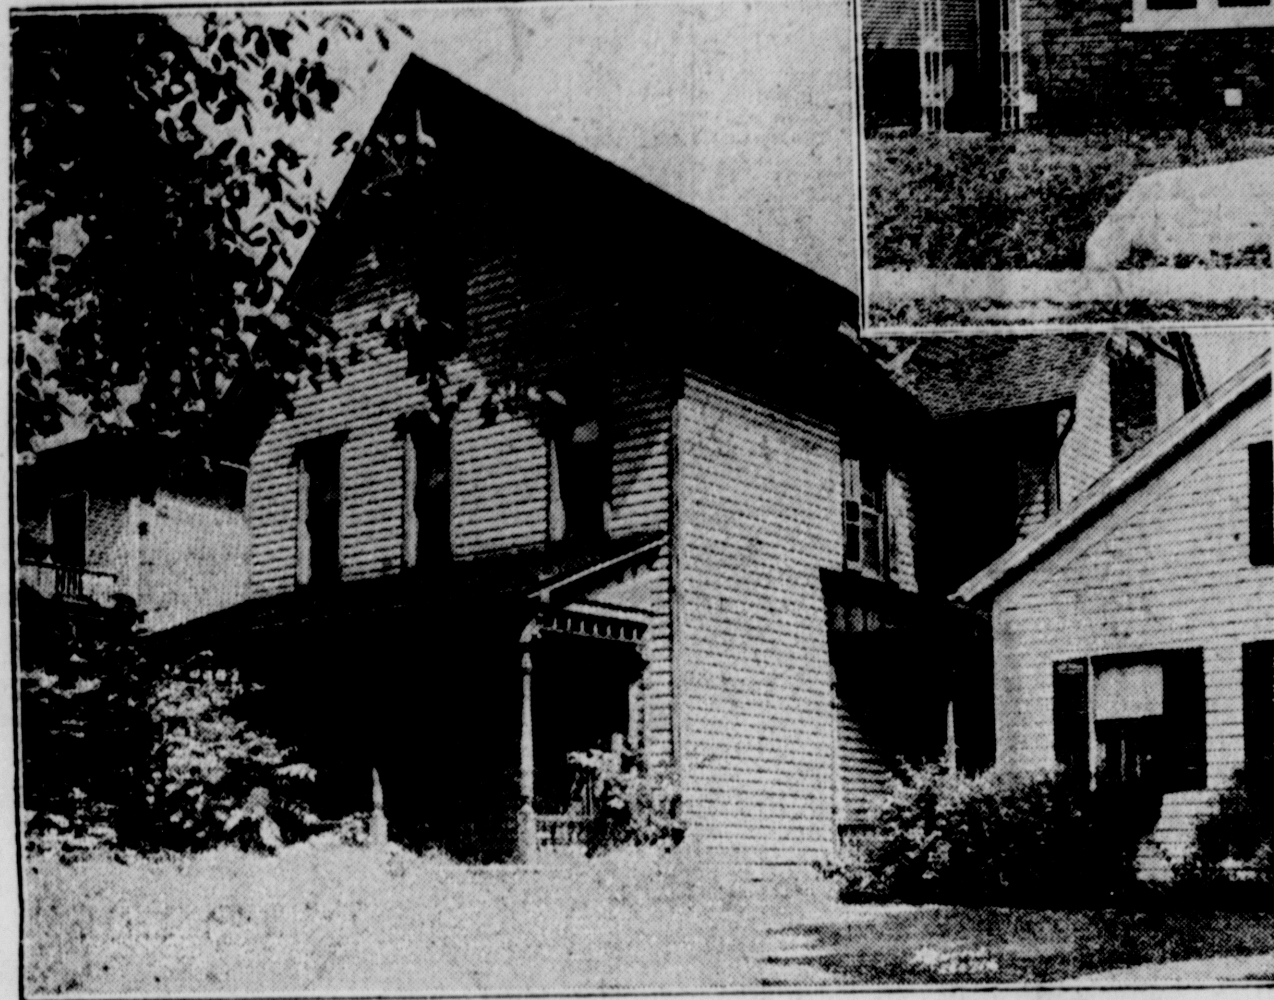

The modernization of this house also called for new arrangement of rooms on the interior. The floors are now hardwood and well waxed. The walls have been refinished with the latest in interior decorative design.

'MODERNIZED HEATING

PLANTS SAVE FUEL

BILLS,' SAYS EXPERT

"When modernizing that house do not overlook the importance of installing a proper heating plant," warns Dean White, heating contractor, "for often the addition or alteration of a house is going to affect the heating arrangements. Whether the present heating plant is too small for the remodeled building, is a matter that only an experienced heating expert can ascertain. Often the old heating plant is not suitable for the modernized structure and it might be more economical to tear out the old plant and install a new type altogether."

There are only two kinds of ink used in printing the $1 bills. The serial number and seal are printed with one ink and the rest of the bill with another.

HERE PROGRESSING

Mrs. Naomi Guy of St. Cloud, Minn., was the Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. La Belle. Mrs. Guy, who is interested in literary work, has enrolled with the La Belle-McColl Bureau for ten months of training in short story writing. She returned April 1 from a six weeks visit in New York City. While there she was inspired to write a story entitled "Lights of the City" which Mr. La Belle, acting as her agent, has undertaken to market. Mrs. Guy is a member of the American Pen Women's League.

Mr. La Belle reports that the students assigned to the Bureau by the Minnesota Department of Education are co-operating with enthusiasm and making progress. Esten Moen of Fosston, Minn., was successful in placing for publication in December two of his manuscripts—and on April 3 he informed the Bureau of another acceptance.

The Department at St. Paul placed with Mr. La Belle last week its fourth contract, this to cover the training of a student in Duluth.

The La Belle-McColl Bureau was opened in Brainerd on July 1, 1929. It is operated by Mr. La Belle and his wife, formerly Lela McColl. Their national advertising has drawn clients from many states of the union.

A published article, written by Mr. La Belle, attracted the attention of St. Paul officials and this resulted in the training contract with the Department of Re-Education.

In addition to its work with authors the Bureau creates sales letters and advertising copy.

This growing institution in Brainerd has required untiring effort, but it is an active example of what can be accomplished with profound faith in a worthy idea.

Plans for a luncheon were discussed by the League of Women Voters at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Dean White, 2007 Main street Tuesday, April 1.

Mrs. Frederick W. Wittich of Minneapolis will be the speaker and the date will be announced soon.

In concluding the study of "Public Welfare" Mrs. E. S. Armstrong gave a brief account of the Social Hygiene laws sponsored by the League, stressing the point that women can do a great deal in keeping vice to a minimum.

Mrs. Per. M. Larson reviewed the legal status of women, and how she had come, not only to aid in her voice and holding of office but in filling the duty of jury service and other works.

She showed clearly why the League is not sponsoring the equal rights movement in that it would break down the protection of women, already on the statutes of the states.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. J. J. Cummins and Miss Genevieve Flanagan.

Mrs. Naomi Guy of St. Cloud, Minn., was the Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. La Belle. Mrs. Guy, who is interested in literary work, has enrolled with the La Belle-McColl Bureau for ten months of training in short story writing. She returned April 1 from a six weeks visit in New York City. While there she was inspired to write a story entitled "Lights of the City" which Mr. La Belle, acting as her agent, has undertaken to market. Mrs. Guy is a member of the American Pen Women's League.

Mr. La Belle reports that the students assigned to the Bureau by the Minnesota Department of Education are co-operating with enthusiasm and making progress. Esten Moen of Fosston, Minn., was successful in placing for publication in December two of his manuscripts—and on April 3 he informed the Bureau of another acceptance.

The Department at St. Paul placed with Mr. La Belle last week its fourth contract, this to cover the training of a student in Duluth.

The La Belle-McColl Bureau was opened in Brainerd on July 1, 1929. It is operated by Mr. La Belle and his wife, formerly Lela McColl. Their national advertising has drawn clients from many states of the union.

A published article, written by Mr. La Belle, attracted the attention of St. Paul officials and this resulted in the training contract with the Department of Re-Education.

In addition to its work with authors the Bureau creates sales letters and advertising copy.

This growing institution in Brainerd has required untiring effort, but it is an active example of what can be accomplished with profound faith in a worthy idea.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER L
STEPHANOS staggered to his feet.

"There's your knife," said Alan, and handed it to him. "Try and use it again on me."

Once more Stephanos tried and again the men were grappling. Again the knife fell to the ground. "With your right arm you dared to touch an American woman, scum of the earth that you are!" shouted Alan. "You'll never use your right arm again, Stephanos. I'm going to break it."

There came a cry of pain as Alan fulfilled his threat. Shirley tried to go away then, but could not. Alan picked up the knife and turned to Abramov.

"A present for you, Abramov. Now kick that dog out of the camp. Don't kill him, mind. Just kick him."

Shirley staggered into the shack and a moment later Alan was beside her.

"Once again—I told you I would have to use methods you wouldn't endorse," he said gruffly. "Gross humiliation was necessary. It's a good thing I kept my temper. I had my hand on his throat once and took it away again."

Part of her was revolted at a scene of violence, but the part of her that was the stronger was dizzy with admiration, clamoring to tell him what she felt. Again Shirley was discovering man—discovering this time the glorious body of man—had seen in him the disciplined strength of the tiger. . . . She put out her hand to him.

"Alan," she said brokenly.

"But it was good business in the end," he added. "Abramov is as much afraid of me now as he was of Stephanos this morning. You proved very useful, Shirley."

"The spell was broken. She got up unsteadily and went behind the curtain into her own part of the shack."

Stephanos attacked at dawn on the following day, as Alan had prophesied.

"The advantage of making him thoroughly angry," he had explained to Shirley the previous evening, "is that he won't wait about. He's burning to avenge the insult. He thinks it'll be a walk-over for him here—he does not know about the Serbians."

She was standing outside the shack when Abramov cantered up with the news. Alan had not yet risen. It was the first time she had been up before him and she wondered uneasily whether he had overstrained himself in his fight with Stephanos.

She held Abramov's horse while he ran into the shack. A couple of minutes later they both came out.

"Right, Abramov!" said Alan. "You get busy. Carry out the plan we arranged in every detail. I'll handle the Serbians. I shan't see you again until we've finished with Stephanos. . . . Petros!" he bellowed, and demanded his horse. "You're tired!" she said anxiously.

"I'm not. I'm just a bit stiff," he answered with unwonted surliness. "You get into the dug-out."

His mood was strange and she was puzzled.

"Not until I hear the first shot fired," she answered. "Those were your orders. You haven't had any breakfast."

He ignored her as Petros came up with the mare. She watched him mount and canter off to the Serbian quarters and she thought that he sat rather heavily.

She fetched the field-glasses and watched his marshaling the Serbians. She knew every detail of his plan and could see that things were working quietly and quickly. Abramov and his men, in touch with half the Serbians, were taking up positions so that they could cover with their rifle fire the ever-changing slope of the mountain where Stephanos would be compelled to mass his men before rushing the camp through the eastern defile. She tried to pick out the mules that were to take the machine guns to their own special ambush, but could not see them.

Presently the Serbian camp was deserted and Alan was trotting back towards the shack.

He drew up and stared at her.

"Everything according to plan?" he said stiffly. "As soon as the fun begins, I'll get those machine guns into position—can't do it until we're sure they are this side of the defile. . . . The sun is getting up. Get me a sunshade, Shirley—two sunshades. . . . Lots of sunshades. A fashionable woman like you must have millions and millions and millions—"

She sprang to his side and caught him as he swayed in the saddle, struggling to keep him from falling, while she screamed for Petros.

It was as much as Petros and herself could do to lift him from the saddle.

"Water and some sunshades," he was muttering like a drunken man. "Quick, the sun is coming!"

"They laid him on the ground, Shirley propping his head, do it until we're sure they are this side of the defile. . . . The sun is getting up. Get me a sunshade, Shirley—two sunshades. . . . Lots of sunshades. A fashionable woman like you must have millions and millions and millions—"

"What is the matter with him?" she cried. "Has he been stabbed?"

"It is fever, madame."

"Malaria?"

"No—it is too sudden. It is the sand-fly fever. It is not dangerous to life, but he will be ill for perhaps ten, for perhaps twenty days. The battle begins, madame."

There had come a couple of rifle shots and then a fusillade from the hills that was answered by Abramov's men and the Serbians.

"Quick—we must get him into the dug-out, no, into the dug-out!" ordered Shirley. "I'll take his feet, Petros."

"No, madame, I can do better," said Petros, dropping to the ground beside Alan and rolling the now unconscious man onto his back. Shirley went to the shack for her own mattress and on this they laid him in the dug-out.

She held his head in her lap while Petros hurried for a pillow and other accessories. Here was disaster unforeseen, overwhelming. For the moment thought of his helplessness, of the giant laid low, drowned all others. She was madened by her own ineffectualness. She had never been taught to nurse—and she had never heard of this particular fever.

"Is it dangerous, Petros?" she asked as the Greek returned.

"He will not die of the fever," answered Petros. "It is very common here. He must have no food or drink until nightfall, and then quinine only."

There came a sudden intensification of the rifle-fire, and a bullet pattered on the iron roof of the shack twenty yards away.

"He will not die of the disease," repeated Petros. "But Stephanos will torture him to death."

"Stephanos!" she echoed. "But we shall win, Petros."

Petros shook his head. "He would have made us win because the men are more afraid of him than of Stephanos. But when they know he is ill they will stop fighting and run away—except the Serbians who are afraid of no one and do not care who wins. They loved him, but one cannot love a sick man."

Shirley gasped at the conception of Stephanos' victory broke upon her. Hitherto she had not thought of it. Alan had perfected his plans and had told her that Stephanos would be annihilated, and she had thought no more about it.

"Then they must not know he is ill," she said quickly. "They do not know yet. We must take care that they do not find out. He has made all his plans and they know what they have to do."

"They will wait for his orders, to carry them out, madame. And when there are no orders, they will run away."

"I know the orders. I shall give them myself," cried Shirley. "They will think that he has sent me."

"Madame is wise," said the Greek. "She will perhaps be killed—and it will be the easier way to die."

"We're not going to die!" exclaimed Shirley in sudden exasperation, but she spoke in English and the Greek only blinked. "By jove, I'd forgotten those machine guns!" In French she added: "Look after him, Petros."

She hurried out of the dug-out into the shack and flung the field glasses about her. Without effort on her part she had stumbled on the soldier's secret—that in battle there is no risk of death.

"He said the machine guns were to go out as soon as the fun began," ran her thoughts. "The fun has been going on for five minutes. A few kind words to Abramov first, I think."

She mounted the mare and galloped across to where Abramov and his men, with half the Serbians on their flank, were firing from cover.

"Mr. Brennaway says you are doing well. He is now going to post machine guns in an ambush to cut off Stephanos' retreat."

Before Abramov could answer, she was galloping across the valley to the camp. In the hollow under an overhanging rocky ledge crouched those of the laborers who had refused to take part in the fight. She heard their cry of amazement as they caught sight of her, then wheeled round the ledge to where twenty Serbians in full equipment were standing by the already laden mules.

She shouted to them in French but they shook their heads. She tried pigeon-English without avail, then fell back on dumb-show. At once they responded and untethered the mules.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER L

STEPHANOS staggered to his feet. "There's your knife," said Alan, and handed it to him. "Try and use it again on me." Once more Stephanos tried and again the knife fell to the ground. "With your right arm you dared to touch an American woman, scum of the earth that you are!" shouted Alan. "You'll never use your right arm again, Stephanos. I'm going to break it."

There came a cry of pain as Alan fulfilled his threat. Shirley tried to go away then, but could not. Alan picked up the knife and turned to Abramov. "A present for you, Abramov. Now kick that dog out of the camp. Don't kill him, mind. Just kick him."

Shirley staggered into the shack and a moment later Alan was beside her.

"Once again—I told you I would have to use methods you wouldn't endorse," he said gruffly. "Gross humiliation was necessary. It's a good thing I kept my temper. I had my hand on his throat once and took it away again."

Part of her was revolted at a scene of violence, but the part of her that was the stronger was dizzy with admiration, clamoring to tell him what she felt. Again Shirley was discovering man—discovering this time the glorious body of man—had seen in him the disciplined strength of the tiger. . . . She put out her hand to him.

"Alan—" she said brokenly. "But it was good business in the end," he added. "Abramov is as much afraid of me now as he was of Stephanos this morning. You proved very useful, Shirley."

The spell was broken. She got up unsteadily and went behind the curtain into her own part of the shack.

Stephanos attacked at dawn on the following day, as Alan had prophesied.

"The advantage of making him thoroughly angry," he had explained to Shirley the previous evening, "is that he won't wait about. He's burning to avenge the insult. He thinks I'll be a walk-over for him—here—he does not know about the Serbians."

She was standing outside the shack when Abramov cantered up with the news. Alan had not yet risen. It was the first time she had been up before him and she wondered uneasily whether he had overstrained himself in his fight with Stephanos.

She held Abramov's horse while he ran into the shack. A couple of minutes later they both came out.

"Right, Abramov!" said Alan. "You get busy. Carry out the plan we arranged in every detail. I'll handle the Serbians. I shan't see you again until we've finished with Stephanos. . . . Petros!" he bellowed, and demanded his horse. "You're tired!" she said anxiously.

"I'm not. I'm just a bit stiff," he answered with unwonted seriousness. "You get into the dug-out."

His mood was strange and she was puzzled. "Not until I hear the first shot fired," she answered. "Those were your orders. You haven't had any breakfast."

He ignored her as Petros came up with the mare. She watched him mount and canter off to the Serbian quarters and she thought that he sat rather heavily.

She fetched the field-glasses and watched his marshaling the Serbians. She knew every detail of his plan and could see that things were working quietly and quickly. Abramov and his men, in touch with half the Serbians, were taking up positions so that they could cover with their rifle fire the overhanging slope of the mountain where Stephanos would be compelled to mass his men before rushing the camp through the eastern defile. She tried to pick out the mules that were to take the machine guns to their own special ambush, but could not see them.

Presently the Serbian camp was deserted and Alan was trotting back towards the shack.

He drew up and stared at her. "Everything according to plan!" he said stiffly. "As soon as the fun begins, I'll get those machine guns into position—can't do it until we're sure they are this side of the defile. . . . The sun is getting up. Get me a sunshade, Shirley—two sunshades. . . . Lots of sunshades. A fashionable woman like you must have millions and millions and millions—"

She sprang to his side and caught him as he swayed in the saddle, struggling to keep him from falling, while she screamed for Petros.

It was as much as Petros and herself could do to lift him from the saddle.

"Water and some sunshades," he was muttering like a drunken man. "Quick, the sun is coming!"

They laid him on the ground, Shirley propping his head. "What is the matter with him?" she cried. "Has he been stabbed?"

"Malara!"

"No—it is too sudden. It is the same fever. It is not dangerous to life, but he will be ill for perhaps ten days."

"The battle begins, madame."

"There had come a couple of rifle shots and then a fusillade from the hills that was answered by Abramov's men and the Serbians."

"Quick—we must get him into the dug-out—no, into the dug-out!" ordered Shirley. "I'll take his feet, Petros."

"No, madame, I can do better," said Petros, dropping to the ground beside Alan and rolling the now unconscious man onto his back. Shirley went to the shack for her own mattress and on this they laid him in the dug-out.

She held his head in her lap while Petros hurried for a pillow and other accessories. Here was disaster unforeseen, overwhelming. For the moment thought of his helplessness, of the giant laid low, drowned all others. She was saddened by her own ineffectualness. She had never been taught to nurse—and she had never heard of this particular fever.

"Is it dangerous, Petros?" she asked as the Greek returned.

"He will not die of the fever," answered Petros. "It is very common here. He must have no food or drink until nightfall, and then quinine only."
